1 page sampled · prepared in 11.5 seconds · 2026-10-20

In this limited public scan, the homepage shows reusable styling patterns but no verified public design-system documentation, and no agent entry was discovered in the checked locations.

What the review found

Is there a design system?

Needs confirmation

Reusable custom properties and repeated button and heading classes suggest shared styling, but this sample does not show a dedicated brand guide, component library, or explicit design-system source.

Recommended: Ask whether an existing brand or component guide already documents these shared patterns.

Can AI tools follow the brand?

Needs confirmation

No machine-readable instructions an AI tool can use to follow the brand were found in the checked locations, and the checked llms.txt returned not found.

Recommended: Ask the owner whether any existing AI-consumable brand guide or token file is already published.

Consistency across the sampled pages

Two candidate heading-variant differences were observed on the homepage; no defensible cross-page drift was available in this sample, and design-source parity was not assessed.

Section titles switch between light and dark text treatments

The section titles “Our Approach” and “Services” use the same section-title pattern but appear with opposite text treatments because they sit on different section backgrounds; this may be intentional but is worth confirming as a documented variant.

Comparable section titles use different contrast styles

The section titles "Services" and "About" use the same section-title pattern yet present differently across sections, which may reflect intended theming rather than drift.

Recommended next steps

1. Confirm with the owner

Confirm whether a public brand or component guide already exists for these homepage patterns.

Based on: Reusable styling · Repeated elements

2. Confirm with the owner

Share any existing AI-readable brand instructions or token files an AI tool can use to follow the brand.

Based on: AI guide check · Public brand-guide links

3. Start here

Document the approved light and dark section-title variants used on the homepage.

Brand kit preview

A small reference taken from the existing homepage. These are observed examples, ready for the brand owner to confirm.

Brand mark

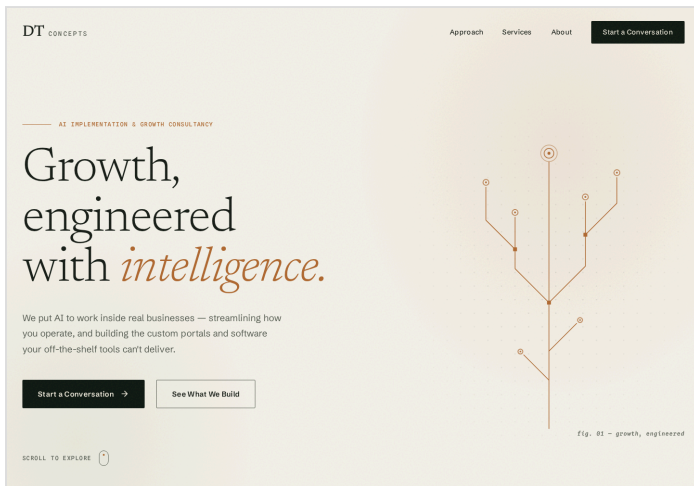

No usable mark was captured.

Colors in use

The most frequently observed colors; intended brand roles still need confirmation.

Pages reviewed

- Home — DT Concepts, LLC | AI Implementation, Consulting & Custom Software

This is a short desktop review of public pages. It does not compare against approved design files, historical versions, mobile layouts or interactive states. Differences are candidates for review, not proof that a brand rule was broken. Internal documentation and working AI access remain unverified.

- Home: About
Observed on Home. About
- Reusable styling
Checked whether the sampled site reuses shared styling. This alone does not establish a maintained design system.
- Repeated elements
Looked for recurring components in the rendered pages. Internal libraries and ownership were not reviewed.
- AI guide check
No document was found at this checked address. Guidance may exist elsewhere. Checked address.
- Public brand-guide links
Checked links on the homepage for a public brand guide or design-system documentation.

Automated review; recommendations need the brand owner's confirmation. This review separates visible implementation and public documentation from internal ownership and adoption. Agent discoverability is an additional check.
